Restoring World Confidence.

The signing of the Lausanne treaty on July 9 by all the great European powers, whereby all the German war reparations were wiped out, and providing instead that Germany shall pay in kind an amount which represents one cent for every dollar demanded by the Allies after the close of the war, marks a new and an important forward step in the direction of establishing the peace of the world and in restoring the economic health of all nations.

Apart altogether from the specific agreements set forth in this historical document, and the gains thereby conferred upon a long suffering world, the fact that the great European powers, and more especially Germany and France, have at last met on common ground, and have signed a treaty as a result of consultation and compromise rather than one forced by one upon the other, is one of the most hopeful occurrences for many years.

Since the signing of the Peace Treaty, and the imposition of a war indemnity on Germany totalling the huge and impossible sum of $65,000,000,000, together with many other humiliations and penalties, nothing but her feelings have prevailed against Europe. Physical warfare has been followed by an ever intensified economic warfare: fortifications and barbed wire trench entanglements, cannon and machine guns have been succeeded by high and ever higher tariff barriers. Each nation has been determined to have as little trade intercourse with its neighbors as possible; each was endeavoring to economically strangle the other. Each was suspicious of and feared the other. Each demanded security from the others. Thus Europe was deadlocked, trade stopped, and people suffered, and the armaments steadily increased despite all efforts to reduce and control them.

Seemingly interminable "conversations" took place between various nations, international conference followed conference without any tangible results being achieved until confidence in the world's political leaders, and even in our existing institutions of government, was more or less shaken. Even in Western Canada leaders of certain parties and groups openly predicted the failure of this last Lausanne conference. This loss of confidence was indeed, the world's greatest loss because it was shattering all hope of success and a way out of our difficulties being found.

The signing of the Lausanne treaty refuted the prophecies of these pessimists. It demonstrated that our statesmen are not bankrupt in vision, patriotism, or diplomacy. It has once again proven that there is always a way out if patience, persistence, tact, coupled with determination, and a will to succeed, is in evidence.

To Premier Ramsay MacDonald belongs the chief credit for this great achievement. He refused at all times to recognize the possibility of failure. When the probability of getting France and Germany to agree seemed most remote, when consultation followed consultation without results, Ramsay MacDonald kept up the good fight until finally he succeeded in bringing these two historic enemies together. Justly deserved were the warm congratulations extended to him by King George. The whole world owes him a debt of gratitude. He has restored confidence in democratic institutions of government throughout the world, and has thereby paved the way for further successes at future conferences.

Besides wiping out the war reparations of $65,000,000,000 which Germany was obligated to pay, and replacing that sum with a lump sum of $650,000,000 to be paid when Germany can sell bonds for that amount, the Lausanne treaty declares suspension of collection and payment of inter-European war debts for a time; it includes an agreement to assist Austria and the Danubian states which are in financial difficulties and whose prosperity is closely linked with that of Germany; it creates a committee to study the grain problem in the Danubian states which are embarrassed by a surplus; and it creates machinery for a world economic conference under the auspices of the League of Nations, in which all nations, including the United States, will participate.

The Lausanne conference did not accomplish everything that some people hoped of it, but it did succeed in making tremendous strides along the road to world betterment and a restoration of conditions which it is essential shall be restored before there can be a return to world confidence, world trade, world prosperity. Had that conference ended in failure, the outlook would have been dark indeed, whereas the large measure of success achieved not only means an immediate betterment, but makes possible the further coming together of the nations in a better, more hopeful, more friendly spirit to consider other problems, such as disarmament, tariff barriers, international currency problems, and allied subjects.

The world outlook is distinctly better because Ramsay MacDonald stuck to his principles and undyingly fought for a return to reason and world brotherhood at Lausanne.

Ceylon Firm Seeking Market In Canada

Many Interesting Lines Of Merchandise Listed For Export

How are you fixed for citronella oil, turtle shells, elephant bones, shark fins or porcupine quills? These are a few of the interesting lines of merchandise exported by the W.-e-fu Trading Agency, Colombo, Ceylon, which has written to the Regina Board of Trade introducing itself as a reliable export and import firm. They wish to secure a Canadian market for their produce. The citronella oil might go good at some of our beaches. J. K. Finlayson, secretary of the board, suggests.

Some of the other exports of the company include tea, rubber, cocoa, copra, coconuts, cinnamon, cloves, pepper, nutmeg, ginseng, moonstones, uncut sapphires for mechanical purposes and mica. On the other hand it imports hardware of all kinds clothing furniture and numerous other western products.

Pains In Stomach and Bowels So Bad Would Have To Sit Down

Mrs. C. Landry, Moncton, N.B., writes: "I can certainly recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for cramps or pains in the stomach and bowels."

"Last Summer I had such awful pains in my stomach, and lower part of my bowels, at times, I would have to sit down. I took Dr. Fowler's and was soon relieved."

"When my children were small I always kept a bottle in the house and it helped them wonderfully whenever any of them had bowel complaints."

Dangers Of the Submarine

Long List Of Disasters Shows Many Lives Lost

Submarine disasters in the past ten years or so have claimed a large toll of lives. In connection with the sinking of the French underwater ship, with 66 men aboard, the following list has been prepared:

March 24, 1915—United States submarine F-4 sunk in Honolulu Bay, 21 dead.

March 23, 1922—British submarine sunk by another British submarine off Gibraltar, 33 dead.

August 21, 1923—Japanese submarine foundered beside a dock at Kobe, Japan, 285 dead.

January 10, 1924—British submarine L-24 sunk by a British battleship off Portland, England, 83 dead.

March 18, 1925—Japanese submarine B-51 sunk off Block Island, R.I., by steamer "City of Rome," 33 dead.

December 17, 1927—United States submarine S-4 sunk off Provincetown, Mass., by coastguard cutter, 40 dead.

August 6, 1928—Italian submarine F-12 sunk in Adriatic Sea in collision with destroyer, 31 dead.

July 9, 1929—British submarine H-47 sunk in St. George's Channel, between Ireland and Wales, in collision with submarine L-12. Heavy death toll.

June 9, 1931—British submarine Poseidon sunk in collision with merchant steamer off coast of China, 20 dead.

October 24, 1931—Russian submarine sank in Gulf of Finland, 50 dead.

November 11, 1932—British submarine M-4, sister ship of the M-2 lost off Start Point, Devonshire, 68 dead.

January 26, 1932—British submarine M-2 sunk off Portland Bill, England, 61 dead.

Duplex Brain

Surgeon Believes That Man Has Secondary Brain In Adrenal Glands

Belief that man has two brains, a highly developed one in his skull and a second one in the adrenal glands near the kidneys, is held by Dr. George W. Crile, famous Cleveland surgeon.

Dr. Crile expressed his opinion in a lecture to army officers at Washington. He was discussing the effects of shocks of various sorts on soldiers. Experiments, he said, had led him to believe that some forms of shell shock and other nervous disorders were linked up with man's possible possession of the two-part brain.

The original brain, before man was even a vertebrate, in the Crile theory, would be the adrenal one, an emotion brain, that responded to impulses of fear, etc. The new brain, the one in the head, is the thinking one, capable of reason.

The brains are connected, Dr. Crile explained, by the sympathetic nervous system. He said that it seemed to permit successful treatment of nervous disorders, in some instances of anesthesia, which temporarily separated the skull brain from the adrenal one and made operative treatment possible.

Further Reduction Of Sea Forces Proposed

Great Britain Launches Move At Geneva For Conference

Great Britain has launched a move for another five-power naval conference aimed at further reduction of sea forces.

The proposal for a five-power naval conference between Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy was advanced by a high British authority in a press interview.

He proposed that it be held in the interval before the world disarmament conference resumes its activities in the fall.

Death Of B.C. Legislator

Death has claimed one of the oldest and most popular members of the British Columbia legislature in the person of Michael Manson, Conservative member for the constituency of Mission. Born in the Ontario lands in 1857, Mr. Manson came to Canada in 1874, and first entered the legislature in 1909.

Power Of Advertising

One Of The Indispensable Tools To The World In Reconstruction Of Industry

Advertising is one of the indispensable tools to be used in the reconstruction of North American industry, was the keynote of an address to the convention of the Pacific Advertising Clubs Association, at Vancouver, by George W. Kleiser, of San Francisco. "Advertising," he declared, "is a powerful instrument which should be used with the greatest skill and care in order that the rebuilding may be sound and lasting once the upturn has begun."

"With the changes in the situation from one where anything could be sold that could be manufactured, to one where anything can be manufactured that can be sold—the opportunity exists for a genuine demonstration of the results that can be obtained through honest, truthful, and straightforwardness in advertising itself," he said. "Advertising will, no doubt, lead us out of the depression and probably will be one of the first industries to recover if those to whom it is entrusted use it powerfully and sanely."

Vaccine For Tuberculosis

Discovery May Mean Partial Control Of Dread Disease

In a copyright story, the Milwaukee Sentinel said 29 years of research by Dr. William D. Frost, agricultural bacteriologist at the University of Wisconsin, have been rewarded by the discovery of a vaccine "tubuvax" which ultimately may bring partial control of tuberculosis.

The vaccine is obtained from isolated tubercle bacilli treated by ultraviolet rays.

"The rays," the paper said, "effectively kill the germs of tuberculosis, but apparently produce little chemical change in their scientific bodies of toxins," and from the ray-treated bacilli the doctor obtained a vaccine which was physically harmless, yet potent enough to combat live bacilli.

Miller's Worm Powders seldom fail. They immediately attack the worms and expel them from the system. They are complete in themselves, and not only as a worm destroyer, but as a highly beneficial medicine for children, correcting weak digestion and restoring the debilitated system to healthfulness, without which the growth of the child will be retarded and its constitution weakened.

Too Many Physicians

Economic Conditions Of Profession Being Lowered, It Is Stated

Too many physicians are being turned out in Canada with the result the economic condition of the medical profession is being lowered, declared Dr. J. M. McCallum, Victoria University, in addressing the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons Council at Toronto.

Dr. W. Paslake, Wolfe Island, had pointed out 323 students went up for the Dominion council examination and only five were "plucked" and 42 others "referred" because they failed in one or two subjects.

Dances May Become Banned

Movement In Denmark Toward Unlawful States London Paper

The statement in the London News Statesman and the Nation that there is a movement in Denmark looking towards a union with the British Commonwealth is perhaps the most startling thing that has been heard from Europe for some time.

It is two generations or more since Tennyson spoke of "The Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World." Everybody believes in it devoutly as a sentiment, but few think of it as possible. It must have a beginning some time, and there is no nation more likely to mingle harmoniously with the British than Denmark whose blood has been blended with that of the British for more than a thousand years.

Tennyson voiced a popular idea when King Edward was married, and he sang—"Saxons and Normans and Danes are we, But all of us Dane in our welcome of thee!"—in salutation of King George's mother, Queen Alexandra. Denmark would be closer to Britain in thought and aspiration than South Africa, or Malta and many other of the little red patches, and the British constitution is elastic and resilient enough to take in any nation that is willing to adopt our ideals.

Build Feeding Station

Large Stock Yard To Be Located At Hudson Bay Junction

Contrary to recent despatches emanating from The Pas, Man., a large stock yard capable of feeding two train loads of cattle at one time will be built in Hudson Bay Junction this summer. This information was given by J. I. Cross, president of the Hudson Bay Junction Board of Trade by R. Byron Horner, director of the Canadian National Railways in Prince Albert.

Hudson Bay-Junction is chosen by the company as the last feeding point for cattle going over the Hudson Bay line, and will also be used extensively for accommodation of cattle going to market. Eighty pens will be constructed with complete equipment for watering and feeding. Railway facilities are already ample to care for a large volume of traffic, with plenty of room for expansion. This was chosen in view of the quality of cattle upland hay growing in the country.

A Problem In Finance

Queerest of all the tales of the depression in Michigan is that of a man in 1929, before the crash, a man had a $280,000 loan at a bank, to cover which he deposited stock, worth, at the market then existing, $400,000. When the stock market went into a tailspin the bank sold him out, getting someone for the stock and leaving the man with his debt paid and a $50,000 credit in the bank.

Then, a little later, the bank collapsed. In a short time it was re-organized and in the shrinkage that was involved the man's credit dwindled to $300. There he drew out $300,000—and bought back all of the securities he had held originally. So now he holds the same stock that he held in 1929, he has wiped out a $280,000 loan and he has $6,000 in cash. Has he gained or lost in the depression?

Saskatchewan Land Settlement

Five Hundred and Nineteen Families Take Advantage Of Provincial Government Scheme

Up to July 1st, 519 families had made applications to take advantage of the Saskatchewan Government's land settlement scheme, 377 had been accepted, and 212 had been located according to figures issued by Hon. Howard McConnell, minister of municipal affairs.

The 212 families actually located have been settled in the districts of Torch River, Big River, Morden, C.P.R. lands south of Battleford, in the Red Pheasant area, and on C.P.R. lands in the Moose Mountain reserve.

Wearing Larger Shoes

Women's feet, according to Toronto men who sell shoes, have gone larger. Most of the increase in size is attributed to the modern woman's love of athletic and outdoor life. Size four is still very popular, but it is amazing the number of women who wear sizes seven and eight are by no means unheard of thing they were years ago.

The First Dominion Day

Many Still Living Who Took Part In Celebration

It is sixty-five years since Canada held her first Dominion Day celebration, yet there are men still living in every municipality throughout the Dominion who remember that event. All Canadians of seventy years and older should remember it. The day was fine, with few exceptions, throughout all the land, the weather giving to the new-comer among the nations a prosperous reception. There were many regiments of red-coated volunteer soldiers in Canada, and they were all on parade that day, and tons of wheat were poured out from their bodies into the good red cloth made by honest British toil. But every volunteer was proud of his red coat, and did a lot of strutting in it that day in spite of the heat.

There are still to be found in many of the "old families" about the pictures taken on the first Dominion Day, which show that our mothers and grandmothers were amply clothed with garments that would hide defective limbs and misshapen bodies, for that was a religious age, and had pity for the misshapen and deformed.

Watch Given Indian Guide Still Alive, He Says

Last summer F. A. Farintosh of the treasurer's office of the Carnegie Institute, New York, on his annual visit to French River, chautauque bungalow camp, gave as a parting gift to his old Indian guide, Xavier Conte, a watch with a good look. When Mr. Farintosh returned to the camp this summer, Xavier took him out feeling and asked about an hour the old guide stopped paddling, took out the watch and proudly said, "See, I still got him and he's still alive."

Tree Planting On Prairies Sole Remedy For Soil Drifting And The Conservation Of Moisture

Extensive tree planting alone can save Saskatchewan from the fate which has overtaken the Sahara desert, according to Capt. Richard St. Barbe Baker, who passed through Winnipeg, on his way from the Peace River country to Toronto. As late as the time of Mohammed, Capt. Baker said, the Sahara was a well-wooded and fertile area. Then came a great influx of Arabs who, like the settlers of the western plains, cut down the trees and began farming operations. The result was to convert the once rich African plains into an arid and unsettled tract, unfit for human habitation.

One of the first hundred students to attend the University of Saskatchewan before the war, Capt. Baker is now completing a tour of Canada, which he had not seen for years. He was delighted with the appearance of Manitoba, where tree protection has evidently encouraged growth. But in Saskatchewan he noted the serious denuding of the plains, and based his prediction for the future upon his study of the past.

Tree planting on all rising ground, Capt. Baker declared, was the sole remedy for this state of affairs, which was resulting in a changed climate, soil drifting and desertification. He urged upon Western Canada, the adoption of the policy in force in New Zealand, where forestry was being made to pay.

In that country one private company had already sown 14,000,000 of "forest bonds." The money was invested in tree-planting, and it was believed that in 12½ years from the time of planting, definite return on the investment could be expected. In the interval the trees did much to conserve moisture and climatic conditions. "Plant a tree and grow money" was the New Zealand slogan.

Capt. Baker said it was deplorable to see settlers in the Peace River country burning off the trees on their farms. This left an alkali deposit which was injurious to the soil. Instead, he advocated the construction of a plant for distilling alcohol from the trees felled, saying this would in time make Canada self supporting in motor fuel. A new carburetor was being perfected in France which could use the gas generated by burning charcoal (made of wood). The policy of tree planting was, therefore, in his opinion, not only good agricultural insurance, but was also a policy that paid actual dividends.

Capt. Baker is the founder of a society named "The Men of the Trees," headquartered in England by Sir Francis Younghusband, its aim being the protection and encouragement of forest growth. He is also an author and forestry expert, having recently been in equatorial Africa employed by the British Government—Winnipeg Free Press.

Revenue From New Taxes

Saskatchewan Tax On Passenger and Freight Public Vehicles
Saskatchewan will collect between $20,000 and $25,000 a year in new taxes levied on passenger and freight public vehicles.

Under public utility board regulations, the government will collect one per cent. of the gross earnings of vehicles operating for gain under the jurisdiction of the new utilities board.

The Pendulum Clock

A pendulum clock gained, owing to the increase of gravity with latitude, about one minute and twenty seconds a day when taken from Ottawa to the mouth of Mackenzie River, North West Territories, by an official of the Dominion Observatory, Department of the Interior, in connection with gravity work. Taken to a height of about five thousand feet up a mountain side in British Columbia it lost about thirteen seconds daily.

Fined For Shaving

Centralla, Wash., takes its whiskers seriously. Frank McDowell, a business man, was fined $25 and his attorney $10 in police court for violating an ordinance requiring all male residents to go unshaven until after the pioneer celebration, August 3 and 4. McDowell's only defence was "The lady friend doesn't like whiskers."

A Linguistic Atlas

Professor Of Yale University is compiling Unusual Colloquialisms in Massachusetts and along the Maine coast, but it is "dutch cheese" in parts of Ontario and Connecticut.

The Connecticut boy who plays on a teeter-totter and eats apple dumplings has a cousin in Rhode Island who plays on a dandle and eats apple slumps.

These expressions are among hundreds of colloquial words and phrases listed in the first report on the Linguistic atlas of North America being compiled under the direction of Prof. Hens Kurath, of Yale University.

From interviews with farmers, housewives, school children, fishermen and mechanics, eight field workers for the atlas have learned that in parts of Ontario the primitive vehicle for taking tourists from the fields is a "stone boat," while in New England states, and some parts of Canada, it is a "dodge."

In Central Ontario, the interviewers found nearly all children played on a "teeter-totter," but in other parts of Canada it was a "seesaw."

It is expected that the material now being collected will make it possible to reveal the history of many phases of Canadian and United States speech. We hope to see a copy of the finished work, and learn whether there are any parts of the continent where a schoolmaster's strap is called a taw; how widespread is the use of the allegedly archaic word fall for autumn, and forenoon for morning, and whether or not the term "hoo-gow" is generally accepted as a synonym for look-up. Perhaps "treacle" has not everywhere been superseded by syrup. Does anyone ride in a "democrat"?

It will be revealed, no doubt, that in some areas a church is a kirk, and that therein they "lift the offering" instead of taking up a collection. Is there still a west that calls a minister a "sky-pilot," a pond a slough and a back road a trail? What are the respective geographical restrictions of freddie, heath and Ingleside, or is any such thing?

Radium Dust In Air

Scientists Claim Thimbleful Contains Billions Of Particles

The air is seeded with floating radium dust. This dust proved its presence by clicking like telegraph keys before an audience of physical scientists attending the meeting at Syracuse, N. Y., of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The radium "air mine" was Dr. W. F. G. Swann, director of the Barthol Research Foundation, Philadelphia, and one of the world's foremost physicists. His radium seed was made for rare scientific gadgets. He used it to illustrate his amazing description of the unseen, unfelt things constantly floating about man and even touching him.

In every thimbleful of air, he said, there are about 1,000 broken particles, many of them smashed by impact of the radium rays from the air.

In the same thimble there are 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 unbroken molecules or particles.

These 1,000 broken particles (ions in scientific language), account for the seepage of electricity through the air. They supply the electrical lubrication.

Only part of the broken particles are produced by radium collisions. Many of the others are broken by bits of cosmic rays. Dr. Swann illustrated by tuning in another set upon which the cosmic rays coming through the roof of the building at the moment struck with resounding clicks. He explained that these rays are shafts from space, their nature not yet determined.

The same kind of ions, except that they are inside the body, were used to explain "learning" by Dr. John N. Washburne of Syracuse University.

He spoke of the learning called conditioned-reflex, which is essentially habit—that is automatic.

Only Three In Operation

A census of hansom cabs in London disclosed three still operating. Six four-wheelers also are carrying "fares." One hansom plies from 9 p.m. until midnight in the West End, in solitary glory, one having been taken to Hollywood recently to take part in a picture, and another joining a circus to be exhibited as a curiosity.

The copper zone of Rhodesia, Africa, contains the greatest accumulation of copper in the world.

Echo Of The War

Lloyd George Not Impressed With Value Of The American Forces
Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's secretary of war, has revealed that David Lloyd George, then Premier of Great Britain, at one time apparently desired the removal of General John J. Pershing as commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Force in the Great War.

In a letter to Colonel Lloyd C. Griscom, former liaison officer between General Pershing and the British War Office, Mr. Baker wrote that the wartime premier complained the United States army was "perfectly useless" to the British forces and was on the verge of asking for General Pershing's recall.

At the conclusion of a dinner in London in 1918, Mr. Baker wrote, Mr. Lloyd George "with vehement emphasis, complained that the United States army in France was of no service to the British at all in spite of the fact that Great Britain had stripped necessary empire services of ships in order to carry United States troops to France, and that they had scarcely gotten to France before General Pershing pulled them away from the British and took them into his own custody on another part of the line."

"This description was most earnest and vehement, resulting in the final declaration of Lloyd George that so far as Great Britain was concerned the American army was perfectly useless and the ship service devoted to bringing them home was wasted."

Mr. Baker replied that from his own observation on the front lines he was convinced that the American troops were "at least detaining that many German divisions which might otherwise be added to the concentration against the French and British."

He countered with an offer to discontinue the transportation of American soldiers on British ships and move only such forces as could be carried on American vessels.

The next morning, Mr. Baker recalled, Lord Reading, former viceroy to India, said that Mr. Lloyd George "asked me to say to you that you should think no more about the matter which he raised for discussion last night at dinner."

The World's Worst Desert

Every Seven Years District In Western Australia Usually Gets Rains
Up beyond Mount Margaret, in Western Australia, is the world's worst desert. On an average it rains once in seven years, but at the time of writing there had been no rain for eight years.

You would not believe that anything in the way of vegetation could exist in such a country yet there is plenty of scrub, a horrible plant, well named "spinifex," for it is all sharp spines. There is also the muree-tree, which—a gold-digger assured the writer—sends its roots down 100 feet into the soil to find water.

Rabbits do not actually live in this desert, but they do on its edges, and there—believe it or not, yet it is true—they have learned to climb trees so as to graze on the leaves when there is no grass.

Most of Australia is subject to severe drought, and it is a very curious thing that after a severe drought in New South Wales springs break out in the parched beds of dry rivers. The driest place on earth is Payta, in Peru, about five degrees south of the Equator. In spite of the fact that this province is on the sea-board, there are children living there ten or twelve years old who have never seen a shower of rain.

Cloves are plentiful, and occasionally there are heavy sea fogs, yet as much as fifteen years may elapse between showers.

In spite of the dryness, this country is inhabited, for small streams, coming down from the western side of the Andes, water it.

UNDOUBTED SLIMMING LINES AND CHIC

Suitable for normal as well as larger figures. Seldom is a dress so smart and so slenderizing at the same time. It has a subtle air of youth. It's the fascinating one-sided rever collar that bows at the opposite shoulder that does it.

In the original dress of black and white crepe silk print, the rever collar was of white crepe silk. The vest, belt and buttons were also of the white crepe. The scalloped outline at the lower of the rever is particularly modish and minimizes bodice breadth. This dress in plain navy blue crepe silk with white trim is most effective.

Style No. 361 is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Batiste prints, sheer linen tweed, sportweight linen and tub silks are smart for summer wear.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Eating Contests Are Foolish

Eminent Doctors Say Such "Stunts" Belong To Mental Hospitals
Eating contests have suddenly had another burst of popularity, and eminent doctors have protested strongly, saying that such "stunts" lead to indigestion and bad health.

Recently fifteen children had to eat while lying flat on their stomachs and with their hands tied behind their backs. A plateful of food was placed in front of each competitor and the first to finish won the prize. No wonder several of the children complained of "tummy-ache" afterwards.

Another freak meal, this time in America, was when two men had dinner sitting on a girder of a big building just being constructed. A table was placed across girder, and two waiters attended them. Diners were veteran iron workers, but they confessed afterwards that despite the quality of the food they did not enjoy this meal.

The third "stunt" was for gymnasts who had to eat a meal while standing on their hands. You had the absurd spectacle of several men standing on one hand and feeding with the other. All the competitors were completely exhausted by the end of the meal. The food, of course, had to travel up. Instead of down, to their stomachs. And because of their unnatural attitudes, the blood rushed to their heads. One competitor, despite his physical fitness, was taken to the hospital. But these contests do not compare with the foolishness of two Oxford undergraduates who, for a wager, had a steak-eating competition. One man ate seventeen beef steaks, and then retired. The other went on to twenty-three, and was dangerously ill for six months afterwards.

Fashionable Chinese

Wedding In London

Scenes of Oriental Splendor at St. Martin-in-the-Fields

London had a fashionable Chinese wedding at St. Martin-in-the-Fields. Mr. Shiu Hong Ma, son of a wealthy Chinese department store proprietor, married Miss Rebecca T. They had been betrothed since babyhood.

Scenes of Oriental splendor attended the wedding. Hundreds of Chinese men and women were at the church. Many of them were in the dress of their country. They made a brilliant splash of color with their vivid blue satin tunics, heavily embroidered, and white trousers, their hair elaborately dressed with ornaments and jewels. The bride's gown was of ivory satin and tulle, with a head-dress of orange blossoms and pearls.

The wedding service was conducted by Rev. Pat McCormick. It was entirely according to the Church of England, except that the word "obey" was omitted.

After the ceremony two receptions were held. The first directly after, which was purely British, and one later, when the party assumed a more Oriental touch, the bride wearing the official Chinese bridal gown of red and black heavily embroidered in silver.

At this reception a separate, Chinese wedding-cake made of minced pork and sugar was distributed to every guest.

Still Believe In Witchcraft

Witches In England Continue To Hold Sway

Witches in England continue to make trouble, or at least there are many people in that country who believe they do. The belief in magic and witchcraft is widespread in many parts of the British Isles even in these days according to William H. Tynan, of Callington, Cornwall, an authority on witchcraft, and upon whom the Cornish Gorsedd, or College of Bard, has conferred the Bardic name of "Whylar Pentry." Searcher of Witchcraft.

In an interview with the News Chronicle, Mr. Tynan said, there are still in this country many who believe in the existence of persons gifted with the power of "flinishing," "overlooking" and the "evil eye." By almost every post he receives letters, alleging that the writers are victims of witchcraft and imploring his aid for the removal of the spells, etc.

A 30 page letter from a Kentish woman sought his guidance in the dispersal of an evil spell cast upon her family which has led to loss of much property as well as other misfortune. A Cornishman afflicted bodily for seven years, declared that she had been "bewitched" and desired information as to how the evil influence could be removed.

Songs Of Yesterday

Old Favorites Have Strong Appeal In This Modern Age

It used to be theory of those who construct radio programs that music composed farther back than the day before yesterday was old-fashioned and unsuited to the demands of an up-and-coming age. Now the program magnates are less sure of themselves and of the public taste.

The directors of a feature called "Today and Yesterday," offered by a New York station, invited the audience to specify their favorite music. Six thousand replies were received, 614 songs were suggested, and first choice, with 513 ballots was none other than our old friend, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," written 60 years ago, and enjoyed by every generation since that time.

Of the seven songs receiving the largest number of votes five were old and only one was really new. Second place was won by the fine old ballad, "When you and I Were Young, Maggie," which was written in 1840. "Paradise," a melody of 1930, was third in the voting; fourth was "Old Man River," composed five years ago; and then came "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," written in 1910; Chauncy Olcott's "Wild Irish Rose," which dates back to 1890, and Carrie Jacob Bond's "Perfect Day." In the other 607 songs mentioned, the old and tried favorites predominated, we are told, among the younger members of the "unseen audience" as well as representatives of the older generation.

Broadcasting stations which have taken a poll of preferences in the matter of instrumental music had similar experiences. They have found a great fondness for the music which everybody knows. Whether this tendency indicates anything in particular we shall not attempt to say. Perhaps, at any rate, it has had something to do with ridding the air of the race of crooners, and for that we should be truly grateful.—Ottawa Journal

Alberta Aviator Has

Unusual Experience

Is Satisfied Now That the Unexpected Sometimes Happens

Out of the ether comes the story of the Alberta flyer who is thankful that slickers are not made too strong. He is a stout gentleman who fits the cockpit of a machine quite snugly. He has flown for thousands of hours with care, caution and safety. He has reduced hazard factor to lowest possible point and had laughed loudly at those who said that the unexpected is always lurking around the corner.

When the snow vanished he stored away his fur flying suit and wore a slicker—a common or garden green slicker, enough, he said, to comfort any man against the Alberta rains.

Recently this pilot was flying northwards in an open cockpit plane. This is his story:

The small windshield on the fuselage ahead of him became clouded with moisture. He put his arm from the cockpit to wipe it. Air swept back by the propeller rushed up the sleeve of the slicker and filled the garment out like a balloon and lifted the pilot from his seat. He asserted he saved himself from being blown away by twining his toes about the instrument, little things like shoes making no difference to a man in real need.

As it was, it was bad enough to find there was nothing he could do and momentarily he expected to be whipped away from the machine completely.

Then with a loud rending the slicker gave way, ripping completely up the back, and a faint and weary gentleman took his place at the controls with a sudden thump.

Special Grill Is Protection

A special grill, designed to fall over the articles displayed when a window is broken came into action when a man alighted from a motor-car and slung a motor-jack through the window of a large London jeweller's. In the window was a diamond ring valued at $15,000.

Turnip sauerkraut is a new, appetizing food.

Science is ever amazing the individual. No sooner does one marvel at something than it becomes a commonplace beside its successor, until it would seem that the world could be surprised no more. Yet science must have many more miracles up her sleeve. One has just been revealed in London that appears to be a virtual revolution in photographic art. It is nothing more or less than the photography of the invisible. A camera was set up in Old Park, Dover, and despite the fact that there had been French coast from view, the printed picture showed a vast range of that coast in extraordinary detail.

The importance of this achievement in photography can hardly be over-estimated. It simply means that whereas the photographer has hitherto been at the mercy of the weather, he can now disregard both rain, mist and haze, and go ahead with his work as though they did not exist. The new system enables the camera to penetrate both mist and haze and to photograph objects and scenes which the actual thickness of the atmosphere prevents the photographer from seeing with his own eyes, with as much detail as though the atmosphere were absolutely clear.

The explanation of the new process is so simple that even the untrained layman can grasp it easily. One reason why we cannot see far in misty or hazy weather is because the light is scattered, or diffused, by the humidity in the atmosphere. It is also scattered on a fine day, but red light is scattered less than blue and the problem has been to use the infra-red light in the atmosphere and to exclude all other light. This has been accomplished by using a piece of dyed gelatine in front of the camera lens as a filter. This permits the proper rays alone to enter the camera and carry the image to be photographed with them. This infra-red light is invisible to the naked eye, but infra-red sensitive plates are responsive to it, and by their use and the use of the filter photographs can be taken with a telephoto camera of scenes which the naked eye cannot see.

What fascinating vistas are thus made possible to the photographer may easily be imagined. A new art has in effect been created by this simple invention which achieves no miracle, but a result that has been in other fields than those of art is easy to indicate. It may, for instance, play a highly important part in aerial photography, and also in pictures taken for defence purposes. More thoroughly exercised control of aerial photography is likely to follow as a natural corollary. But in so far as the art photographer is concerned, he now has a new resource from which he may draw hitherto unimaginable beauties for the delectation of those who love nature in all its forms.—Montreal Star.

Serious Hail Losses

Heavy Damage Suffered By Farmers In Southern Saskatchewan

Hail losses in southern Saskatchewan are very serious, according to insurance officials at Regina. Heavy damage has been suffered in districts where farmers have not been able to afford insurance.

According to C. C. Cook, president of the Farmers Mutual Hail Insurance Company, claims this year have not been numerous but those which have been received are large.

Seven claims ranging up to 100 per cent. had been received from the district between Pasqua and Moose Jaw following a hail storm in that district. E. G. Hingley, secretary of the Saskatchewan Municipal Hail Association, said.

Helpful Evidence

A critical moment in a court case had arrived.

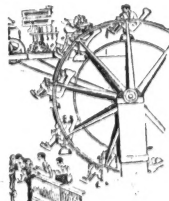

Counsel for defence rose and pointed his finger at the man in the witness box.

"Now, sir," he commenced, "the whole evidence hangs on the destroyed letter. Think before you answer. What did the postmark say?"

The witness went through the actions of deep thought.

"I remember," he said at last. "The postmark said: 'Every home needs a telephone.'"

The Wheat Market

Major H. G. L. Strange, director of the research department of the Searle Grain Company, Winnipeg, has put word situation in regard to wheat in very few words. A recent statement by him reads:

"The world produces each year and consumes in rough figures about 4,500 million bushels of wheat. These figures do not include China, which it has been roughly estimated produced and consumed 600 million bushels. Therefore the total amount of wheat produced and consumed in the entire world is probably in excess of 5,000 million bushels per annum."

"Most of this wheat is consumed in the country in which it is produced. Some countries, however, produce less than they require and so have to import wheat and wheat flour. Some other countries produce more than they can consume and so they have wheat and wheat flour to export. The amount of wheat which is thus imported and exported, most of it across the seas—or which enters the International Trade—is between 750 and 800 million bushels each year. This is the market and the only market that is available for the wheat that Canada cannot consume at home and which she has to sell abroad."

"Canada's average wheat production for the past ten years has been 380 million bushels yearly. Her export or sales abroad for the same ten years have averaged 281 million bushels per annum in the form of wheat and wheat flour, or about 70 per cent. of her total production of wheat. The amount she has exported as wheat has averaged 237 million bushels per annum, and as wheat flour 43 million bushels per annum."

WHEAT PREFERENCE MOST DESIRABLE
It is surprising and not a little disconcerting to find that when at long last the Mother Country is in a position, and displays a willingness, to extend a preference to wheat produced in other overseas Dominions there are groups in Western Canada who declare they do not want it. For some months Canadians of every class and occupation have been emphasizing the need of preferential treatment to trade within the Empire, and especially for favored treatments for our national products.

It is difficult to see why wheat, the country's leading food product, should be segregated as an export to which British preference would prove injurious.

Opposition to a wheat preference is strangely composed. For the first time in history, notably, Wheat Pool officials and the Winnipeg Grain Exchange are agreed on a principle connected with wheat. They are lined up side by side as the chief opponents of this plan. So far as can be ascertained, their opposition is inspired by fear that a British preference would be extremely likely to inspire retaliatory tariffs by European nations, and any possible advantage of higher prices in Great Britain would be offset by lower prices on the continent. They fear it is suggested, a hostile grouping of wheat import and export countries such as Argentina, Germany and France, and the consequent loss of the present European market for Canadian wheat.

The answer to these fears is that what is visualized has already happened under an open British market. Continental countries erected prohibitive tariff barriers against Canadian wheat, Russia and Argentina have flooded Great Britain with cheaper grades of wheat to the detriment of the Dominion, until last year only 21 per cent. of Canada's wheat export surplus was sold in the Mother Country. It is difficult to see how Canadian wheat growers would suffer by having a market for over 10,000,000 bushels of wheat guaranteed in Great Britain at a guaranteed price that could be obtained elsewhere. It is that Canada produces about 250,000,000 bushels for export, and would have to enter into world competition for the balance unsold to Great Britain, but that is exactly the position today with the entire Canadian crop.

Fair Was Most Successful

The Fair and Stampede held Tuesday and Wednesday here was a decided success. Some remarkable riding and roping was done. Cowboys from all over the province were there and showed their prowess in all lines of rodeo sports. There were some really tough horses, but in most cases these wild ones were tamed to the satisfaction of the large crowd.

The three chuckies were kept hustling all afternoon and the horses and steers were put through with speed. The Agricultural Exhibition was very successful and much high class stock was shown. Although entry list was not as great as in other years the high quality of the animals shown was evident.

Notwithstanding the hard times, a record crowd attended this year's Fair and Stampede, and it was the wish of everyone that another stampede would be held next year.

The midway and hot dog stands came in for a lot of patronage, and the dance Wednesday evening was exceptionally good. Bob Paulsen and his band supplied the music for the dance, and kept the dancers stepping lively till early Thursday morning.

A Short Business Review

Following you will find many write-ups of progressive concerns in Lacombe, that are helping to turn the wheel of progress and bring conditions back to normal. These firms have confidence in Lacombe's ability to recover her former "good times" and are taking this method to let their many friends and customers of this district know that the so-called depression has not affected their confidence.

ATLAS LUMBER CO., LTD.

THOS. WILKES, Mgr.

Featuring the best grade of lumber and building supplies, this reliable firm is one of Lacombe's most popular firms.

The Atlas Lumber Co., has become an important factor in the development of this section. Their guiding influence has always been a determination to furnish the highest grade of lumber and material, so that the extension and beautification of the community can progress rapidly.

The men who are at the back of this firm are financially able to go into the markets and buy in large quantities, which of course means a big saving for their customers.

If you have any problem along the building lines to solve, bring it to Mr. Tom Wilkes the manager, and he will figure out your specifications to your advantage, saving you the cost of buying more material than necessary.

Those connected with the Atlas Lumber Co., have always been loyal supporters for their community; ready to act or serve in any capacity that concerned the good of the people.

We feel that it is to your advantage to transact business with this firm, and suggest you pay them a visit when you need anything in their line.

Red & White Store

E. H. Mitten, Manager

"Buy it at the Red & White Store" is a fitting slogan for all those people who wish to keep their food bills at the lowest possible figure.

This popular Grocery is always well stocked with both staple and fancy groceries, as well as fresh fruits and groceries in season.

It is a well known fact that this store operates on a smaller margin of profit than any other lines of business, and for this reason they must turn over their stock rapidly. This assures you of fresh goods at all times.

Mr. Mitten the proprietor sees that the stock is replaced at all times, with food supplies which every housewife needs. Nationally known brands are carried, together with those of Provincial manufacture.

The enormous buying power of the Red and White organization enables them to buy direct, and this saving is passed on to their patrons.

This does not mean however that the Red and White is primarily a chain store. Indeed it is owned by Mr. Mitten, who curiously stock can be purchased. You will find them courteous and accommodating and willing to give any and all information in their line.

When it comes to purchase of this class of goods, J.N.B. MacDonald & Sons should be consulted, and we advise all our readers to consider very carefully before buying elsewhere, as they are right here in Lacombe and their reputation as neighbours is behind all they sell.

No review of the business and agricultural interests would be complete without prominent mention of this firm. Mr. Lundberg the manager, is well known by his gained for his firm the confidence and good will of the people.

A BLUNDER

It is true that returned soldiers are by no means the only unemployed deserving of assistance. It is true that a country which provides for its war veterans and leaves to other unemployed to fend for themselves is not fulfilling its duty by half. But these truths do not minimize the seriousness of the recent events at Washington, D.C. One of the veterans who are agitating for immediate payment of the U.S. bonus was killed by troops ordered out by President Hoover, and another was seriously wounded.

Let us look at the matter from a cold-blooded, utilitarian point of view. Governments have been given loyal support by organizations of returned soldiers. In Canada, for instance, the patriotism professed by such organizations has been quite remarkable. Indeed, we might suggest that some ex-soldiers have on occasions displayed the intensified sort of patriotism which is not always conducive of harmony. Infused with the spirit of war camaraderie and with a certain tradition of service, these men provide today a solid battalion of fighters against the wrongs of the world.

A recent statement by the Industrial and Development of Meat Packers, who trade with the military, is a most valuable asset.

Yet the situation in the U.S. has been allowed to develop to the point where men presumably in a similar category have been antagonized to the point of revolt. Now one of them has been killed by the army of which he was once a member.

The shooting at Washington may appear now to be unavoidable, but, if we trace events back to original causes, violence of this nature is never unavoidable.

Somewhat, by somebody's mistake or because of a series of mistakes, the original promise of the United States government to recompense its war heroes has ended in bloodshed. If the war heroes were reasonable in their demand the blunder would be a serious one; if (as seems probable) they are unreasonable, they have been made so by the promises of politicians.

IMPROVING OUR HOGS We still have a lot to learn about producing hog products. At least the Canadian packers say we have, and since they are the people who have to turn the output over to our customers at an advantage to us, they ought to know.

lowest prices on high class meats and specialties. It is organized along lines that bring them an ever increasing business.

Those who trade at the City Meat Market have found that they are able to save much money on meat bills, and if properly put away, it will be being saved out of them a handsome sum over a period of time.

The prices are a result of low overhead, close buying, doing a large business, and making a small profit on each sale, yet the quality of the meat is the very best.

Mr. Calkins and his assistants are always courteous and accommodating, and will give you tasty suggestions so that your cooking will receive that well merited praise that is due the intelligent housewife.

In this review, taking as we do the outstanding firms of Lacombe, we wish to congratulate the management on conducting a store that is in advance of the time, and we would advise anyone having trouble with the meat problem to give the City Meat Market a trial.

Lacombe Furniture Store

Charles Raymond

One of Lacombe's most popular firms, the Lacombe Furniture Co., is equipped to render the public a complete and satisfactory home furnishing service.

A visit to this store will convince you of the wonderful revelations offered to furnish the home complete. There will be found the newest and most attractive designs of the furniture makers art, from the luxuriously upholstered suites, to the effective wicker for the sunparlor or bedroom. Furniture in every style, price and design, for every room in the house, to suit every taste, and every bank account.

Mr. Charles Raymond, the manager, is amongst the most reliable merchants in Lacombe, and practices the "Golden Rule" in all business dealings.

It has proven the worth of this business policy, by the rapid growth of his custom, as he sells only the highest quality of merchandise at fair prices.

We wish to refer this store to all our readers, without qualification and to commend Mr. Raymond on the valuable position his home furnishing service occupies in the life of the district.

ers included the following paragraphs.

"Western Canada, which produces the bulk of the surplus hogs marketed in Canada, has a very small percentage of the good hogs. It is essential that we should recognize and acknowledge this inexcusable fact."

"There also comes out of Western Canada a percentage of good hogs as are found anywhere. Evidently quality can be bred, reared and fed in the West."

"The time has come when those responsible for merchandising the bacon products of Canada must speak plainly on this matter. It is useless to be 'in-between' ourselves along. A concentrated effort must be made to put the rearing and feeding methods of Western Canada on a footing that will produce the quality of bacon product, as a nation must have."

All of the above is true, but it is not new. For years extension workers and the farm press have been pounding away at this question of improved breeding and feeding, and still the percentage of select hogs marketed in the west is small, why? It is a big question, but there are two answers that certainly fit the case regardless of what others there may be.

"The Western farmer is not yet 'hog-minded' to paraphrase a popular saying. The 'in-and-out' still rules; hog raising is a minor farm operation whereas it should be considered as one of the main activities."

And the farmer feeds, rightly or wrongly, he does not receive sufficient premium for his select hogs to make a study of them justifiable. The representative man on the land feeding hogs does not consider expert specifications and general price levels, but he is keenly aware of the fact that he gets but little more for the select type he nurtures than does his neighbor for the under-achievers he raises by the hit-and-miss system.

In this territory at any rate, the production of select hogs would be greatly stimulated by the re-establishing of a definite premium on hogs of this class, even though it be the expense of the other kinds. The present system of price quotations does not seem to impress the producers sufficiently; the line of demarcation between selects and basons and the fact that the former are at a premium every day of the year is not strongly enough pronounced.

END OF GORGULOFF

Paul Gorguloff, assassin of Paul Doumer, President of France, has asked for a soldier's death. When he was taken to the death house in the Sainte prison, to await the guillotine, he repeated time after time: "I don't want the guillotine. Why don't they shoot me like a soldier?" This is the last act of a pathetic drama. The assassination of Paul Doumer was a wanton and terribly unnecessary act. It was conceived by a diseased brain and carried out in a spirit of insane fanaticism. To Gorguloff here are few more important passages in the world than Gorguloff. Ironically, he committed the crime because he thought that France of all nations was too friendly toward Russia. There was not the slightest logic at the back of his action.

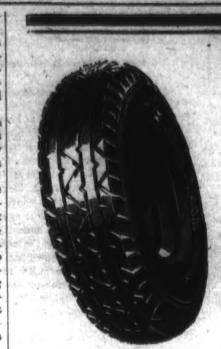

It would probably be a bad thing, socially, to allow Gorguloff his last wish. A soldier's death. Yet one can almost find it in one's heart to wish him it. For there is in him, curiously, that same quality of sacrifice that is found in the best of us. It is only that his poor, diseased brain is mis-directed and the explanation must be found with nature, "who maketh man diseased and wild, corruptible and ignorant and blind."

He did a monstrous thing in the spirit in which fine things are done. He has obviously, the egotism of the maniac, which may bear some resemblance to the egotism of the superman. A soldier's death would be a last step to that notion, and it would send Gorguloff from the distorted world of his imagination with a happiness which sane men rarely achieve.

SUMMER'S TRAGEDIES

Holiday times are here and again hundreds of people gather at summer resorts and watering places, and again the number of drowning fatalities increases day by day. Each drowning is a sad matter, it brings untold grief to many, it deprives a family of a father, mother, sister or brother; it is sad but it is unnecessary.

The risks that persons take when boating and canoeing or swimming in unsafe waters are ridiculous in view of the hazards that pertain thereto. It is probably the spirit of the age to take unnecessary risks for the "thrill". But when these risks may entail sorrow and grief for numerous others, it is time to use a little common sense. How one employs one's recreational moments is a purely individual matter and should not be subject of legislation so long as others do not suffer. But those who rock boats and issue forth in canoes without knowledge of those delicate craft and those who venture out to stormy waters unnecessarily show a thoughtless lack of regard for others.

Following the recent tragedy at Wakaw Lake, boating was prohibited at the C.G.I.T. camp. The girls are being prevented from enjoying one of the really enjoyable sports. The dict is, of course, to reassure the parents of such girls that they will not be involved in another tragedy. But in the meantime a prohibition is being placed on individual liberty and prohibitions are notoriously futile. And there might be a move to prohibit the driving of automobiles because 50,000 persons a year are killed in motor accidents were it not for the incessant stress of the need of caution and safe and sane methods of driving.

What people at summer resorts need is simply common sense. Let them have regard for the feelings of others, let them have a thought for their own safety, and let them avoid unnecessary risks. Then, it is safe to say, there will be far fewer drownings.

Trip Was Disappointing

Mystery Excursion Took Man Night Back Home

Some of the harassed railroads are offering "mystery excursions," an idea they copied from England. They advertise the trip and the destination is kept a deep and romantic secret. They say even the engineer doesn't know where he is going until after he gets started and reads his orders. The Southern Railway held a mystery excursion out of Washington on a recent Sunday. Early in the morning the train pulled out with five hundred excursionists, gay, merry, and expectant. In due time the wound up at Fry's Springs, a suburb of Charlottesville, Virginia, about a hundred and twenty-five miles south of Washington. A band played frequently during the day, there was swimming and hiking, and in the afternoon a big barbecued dinner. The trippers got back to Washington about nine p.m., tired but happy; all except one sadly disappointed customer. He hailed from Fry's Springs, which he had left the very morning to drive up to Washington in great anticipation of seeing a new world. He wouldn't have come back up on the train at all if he hadn't had to get his automobile and drive it back to Fry's Springs that night.—The New Yorker.

This Business Is New

British Columbian Rents His Hens To Customers

"Pay-as-you-lay" is the new policy upon which George McCreff, Sunny-side poultry rancher, disposes of his fowls. The plan enables a man without much capital to get into the poultry business by leasing hens.

Mr. McCreff had a customer in Vancouver for exceptionally large eggs. At current prices McCreff could not supply the man with eggs and keep even with the feed man. He hit upon the plan of letting the customer have 100 hens on a rental basis.

"They do it with dress suits, radios, or batteries and drive-yourself autos, so why not with laying hens?" was Mr. McCreff's comment on the deal.

The result is that the hens earn Mr. McCreff a tidy return upon investment, and he is assured against charges for feed and housing. The man who rents the hens agrees to keep them in good health and to make good any hens lost through death or theft.

YOUTH LOVES A JACKET DRESSES BECAUSE OF ITS SMART SOPHISTICATION

And here's a snappy one. It has all the new features, including a built-up waistline, now so popular with grown-ups.

The skirt is smartly cut with insets at the sides. They form inverted plaits, joined to the front panel section, providing interesting flare to the hem.

The separate bolero jacket is the smartest feature. It can be made with long or short sleeves. A flag blue and white linen made the original, with plain white linen contrast. The part of white linen had vivid orange-red insets.

Style No. 466 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 2 1/4 yards of 35-inch material with 1 1/4 yards of 35-inch contrasting.

Put milk, batiste prints, cotton novelties in basket weaves, gay stripes, checks and dot motifs make up attractively in this cute model.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Soldier's Mother Honored

For the second time a woman has had the honor of reviving the Flame of Remembrance which burns day and night over the tomb of the French unknown soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe. ## Contract Bridge

By Hamlin B. Hatch, Olympic Champion, Cavendish Club, Toronto

The Responding Hand—Partnership and all the world implies, is the fundamental factor in successful contract playing. And it is in the response between partners that the precise truthful facts about the combined hands, are conveyed to the respective partners. This can be done quite accurately provided there is no interference bidding. The purpose of this article is to show methods of correct response bidding predicated on the assumption that there is no interference bidding.

The original bidder opens the bidding with a bid of one. This bid implies tells the partner of the bidder, that the bidding hand contains at least three or four high cards, and that the original bidder thinks that these high cards, under average conditions, will take from two to three tricks against any bid the opponents make. The bid also says, that, in the declarer suit, the bidder guarantees that he will take a minimum of four to five tricks, provided the deal is played in the original bid suit.

Normal expectancy in the responding hand is three taking tricks in the declarer suit. The responding hand then, with three or less taking tricks in the original declared suit must deny the original bid by either a pass or another declaration. It must be firmly fixed in the mind of the player that it is on the correctness of the first response that the success or failure of the particular deal is based. And that also the function of the responding hand, is to bear the brunt of the bidding.

The responding hand has four-bidding possibilities provided there is no adverse bid. These are the raise, the pass, the retreat and the jump-shift or forcing bid.

The Raise:—If it is decided to raise partner's suit, then the full raise should be given immediately. And the full raise is the number of taking tricks above the normal expectancy of three, that the hand contains. If one heart in the original declared suit, and the responding hand will take five tricks with hearts trumps, and has normal length in hearts, the bid of the responding hand must be three hearts.

Pass:—If the responding hand contains no raise, no no-trump suit, and less than one honor trick, the correct bid is pass. Hands which are freakish in distribution are exceptions. Freak hands may be bid with less than an honor trick.

The Takeout:—This is a bid in another suit or no-trump. It must, in the early stages of the bidding, be construed by the original bidder as a denial of the original bid. In effect it may not be a denial as the responding hand may have more than normal expectancy in the original bid, but may have a powerful suit of its own. In many cases the takeout is made to find out if the hand "fits." If the two hands can support each other's bids, the hand does fit and high contracts can usually be made.

A second takeout of the original bid is a definite denial and tells partner it is best not to play the hand in the original declaration unless the original bidder's hand is exceptionally strong in the suit bid.

The Forcing Takeout is never a denial of partner's bid. In other words a forcing response should not be made, as a rule, unless the forcing hand has at least neutral support in the original declaration. By neutral support is meant two trumps at least. However a forcing takeout may be made without even neutral support in the original bid, when the forcing bidder's suit is so strong, that, irrespective of his partner's holding in the forcing suit bid, the hand will be played in the forcing suit. It must be remembered that the forcing takeout is a definite game guarantee bid and, that, after a forcing bid is made the contracting must be continued until a game contract is arrived at.

The One No Trump takeout is the only weakness bid in contract in the first round of bidding. All other takeouts or bids, with the exception of the pass, are strength bids and convey definite high card information to partner. Generally the one no-trump takeout is made when the responding

KETTLE 'N' ALL

Diminutive Mary Aitken photographed atop her giant's suitcase along with her Highland dolly and pet kettle. Recently four hundred members of the Natives of Glasgow Re-Union Party from the western provinces marshalled at Winnipeg and departed for deckchairs at Montreal aboard a special Canadian Pacific train. Aboard the "Duchess of Bedford" the party will be augmented by an additional eight hundred hardy Scots—all homeward bound. Mary is travelling with them from Vancouver to Kilmorie, Ayrshire—and the kettle goes along too!

hand has no hideable suit and only from one to two high cards, and sometimes not even one. The bid warns partner that there is no game in the hand, unless the original bidder has a very powerful hand. It is made strongly that for this particular deal, the partnership must be satisfied with a partial score. Usually the no-trump takeout places at least one high card in the no-trump bidder's hand, but occasionally this no-trump takeout should be made on a trickless hand. In other words the good player uses the one no-trump takeout, whenever there is even a remote chance to better the bid, and to get into a bid which suits both hands better than the original bid. The following is an example. Original bid is one heart. Partner holds six spades to the ten spot, a singleton heart, three little diamonds and three little clubs. Partner bids one no-trump, and on second round of bidding bids two spades. The hand is trickless with hearts trumps but with spades trumps will take three tricks. Original bidder, after the one no-trump and the subsequent two spade bid must pass unless exceptionally strong.

New War Toy

Great Britain Produces Super Machine Gun With Great Possibilities

Great Britain has a new war toy that can shoot faster than anything on record. It is not much heavier than the ordinary service rifle, but it is really a super machine gun firing 1,100 rounds of ammunition a minute. What is more, it is said to be easy to operate, hard to jam and, as easily important in these times, inexpensive. Use in this rapid firing place Germany's new bullets, which have double the velocity of those now obtainable and which penetrate half-inch chrome-nickel armor as well as five-eighths inch armor plate, and war will be even worse than Sherman said it was.—The Falkland.

Practising Lady Druggists

City of Saint John, New Brunswick, Has Three

Saint John has now three practicing lady druggists. With the recent election of Miss Agnes I. Short, proprietress of Short's Pharmacy, as president of the New Brunswick Pharmaceutical Society, the spotlight of public attention has been turned upon the women in this profession. While Miss Short was for a number of years the only woman druggist managing her own store in the city, there is now another, Miss Davida Gabriel, who has been operating her drug store for about a year. Miss Helen Arnold is also a registered druggist. Women are gradually invading the pharmaceutical field, and those already in it wonder why there are not more in the ranks of druggists. They find the business congenial and interesting.

Delay Was Costly

Belgrade Lawyer Lost Heavily By Being Late At Court

Costly delay was suffered by a lawyer in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, who presented a claim for $12,500 damages. His claim was found to be correct in a preliminary court, and there was no doubt that the verdict would be in his favor. On the day when the decision of the court had to be given, defendant's witnesses, judges, were all present at ten a.m. By a jugo-slav law if a plaintiff is not in court at the hour fixed for a case it is considered that he has withdrawn it. So the lawyer has lost his damages and had to pay the costs.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

COCONUT SEA FOAM FROSTING

1 cup brown sugar.
1/2 cup boiling water.
1 egg white, stiffly beaten.
1/4 tablespoon vanilla.
1/2 can coconut, southern style.
Combine sugar and water. Place over low flame and stir constantly until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue cooking until a small amount of syrup forms a soft ball of water. Pour into a hot bread when dropped from tip of spoon (240 degrees Fahrenheit). Pour syrup in fine stream over egg white, beating constantly. Add vanilla. Continue beating until stiff enough to spread on cake. Spread on cake and sprinkle thickly with coconut while frosting is still soft. Make enough frosting to cover top and sides of 8 x 8 inch cake.

ARABIAN PUDDING

Five tablespoons butter, 1-cup light brown sugar, 3 egg yolks, 1/2 cup cold strong coffee, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1 dozen lady fingers, Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, and then the egg yolks. Add coffee and vanilla drop by drop (if coffee is added quickly the mixture will curdle). Place 2 or 3 lady fingers in parfait or sherbet glass and cover with coffee mixture, then set in ice box for 3 hours.

Canadian Cheese

Canada Supplies One-Quarter Of Britain's Total Exports

Canada increased her exports of cheese to the United Kingdom in 1931 by 4 per cent. over 1930, and supplies one-quarter of Britain's total exports. This compares with 22 per cent. in 1930, states the report, just issued by the Empire Marketing Board on "Dairy Produce Supplies in 1931."

Canada sent over 700,000 cwt. of cheese to Britain last season. The empire supplied fully 87 per cent. of the Old Country's total imports of cheese. New Zealand being the chief empire source.

Shrinkage In Revenue

Americans Pay Millions Less In Corporation and Income Taxes

Americans paid $803,161,167.36 less in corporation and income taxes during the fiscal year just ended than in the year before, the Bureau of Internal Revenue reported.

This shrinkage in revenue and the increased government expenditures resulted in the greatest peace-time treasury deficit in the history of the country. It necessitated passage of a billion dollar tax bill and another measure designed to save $150,000,000 in government expenses. The deficit was officially placed at $2,885,000,000.

Roosevelt the Man

Brief Sketch Of The Democratic Presidential Nominee

The honorable and gallant gentleman, as British M.P.'s are called by their fellow countrymen, the right phrase for Franklin D. Roosevelt as he stood before the Democratic convention in Chicago and accepted its nomination for president.

To one seeing him for the first time the degree of his physical infirmity, though he has made immense gains since stricken by infantile paralysis eleven years ago, was startling. He walked with painful slowness to the dais, one hand on a stout cane and the other in the arm of his towering son, James.

He had flown from New York on a rough day and this, as air travel is still comparatively uncommon in the United States, appeared to most of the delegates a highly venturesome thing to do. As he gripped the desk with both hands before speaking, he appeared to be overcoming fatigue with difficulty.

Once he was launched on his speech there was no thought of that. The governor is well over six feet tall, strongly built and apparently, but for his lameness, in vibrant health. He spoke fast and vigorously.

As a speaker he falls just short of arousing enthusiasm. Considerably more magnetic than President Hoover on the platform, he is too reserved and chooses his words too carefully to "heat" the audience, as Theodore Roosevelt could obtain.

The Chicago citizens in the galleries began to leave the hall in numbers after a few minutes, but the delegates on the floor were sympathetic and intent. The unceasing glare of the stage lights and the crackle and flash of the press cameras gave the whole scene a theatrical air.

The governor spoke earnestly and with few gestures, but his face was animated and its grave lines became firmer as he made a point. Now and again his brave and gay smile flashed and he raised his arm in a final greeting he was given perhaps the most spontaneous ovation of the six-day party session.

Something New In Dentistry

Stainless Steel Now Being Used In Place Of Gold

Something new in dentistry—the use of stainless steel in plates and other appliances—will be described at the joint convention of the British Canadian and Ontario Dental Associations to be held in Toronto during August. The world has long been accustomed to gold teeth, bridges, and now it is being used in dental bridges as well.

Originally developed in Germany, much work on the use of stainless steel to replace gold and other precious metals in the construction of plates, clasps, bands and other dental appliances has been done in Great Britain.

Some work has been done in Canada, according to members of the faculty of dentistry at the University of Toronto, but the time has not yet come when every dentist is prepared for this new type of treatment.

New York's Leaning Tower

Unlike Wonder At Pisa It Leans Different Ways

Perhaps few people know it, but New York City has its own "Leaning Tower," the new H. L. Doherty Building, but far from being like the world wonder at Pisa, New York's tower leans sometimes one way, and sometimes another. When first told that it was leaning toward the north, engineers suspected an optical illusion, but accurate tests showed that the tower leaned to the south. To settle the question another test was made next day, and it was found that the tower leaned toward the west. It was finally discovered that the heat of the sun expanded the metal on one side or another, causing a variation of four inches at the top.

Sheep Industry Growing

The sheep industry in Alberta is making excellent headway. A report issued by the Department of Lands and Mines shows that the Calgary and Lethbridge districts alone there are now 140,000 sheep on grazing lands. The wool clip this year is expected to be considerably larger than ever in the past.

Northern Air Route

Pan-American Airways Have Received Consensus

R. C. Marshall, president of Trans-America Air Lines corporation announced the transfer of concessions and operating agreements for a northern air route across the Atlantic ocean to Europe to Pan-American Airways.

The announcement stated that all research and survey work would be taken over by Pan-American Airways, as well as a 75-year concession by the government of Iceland for operation over that country on the northern air route.

"Trans-American pilots last year plotted a route to Europe, extending 4,369 miles through Canada, past Hudson Bay and over Baffin Land, across Greenland to Iceland, the Faroe Islands, and over Norway to the European terminal at Copenhagen, Denmark. Two flyers, Parker Cramer and Oliver L. Paquetiere, were lost in the North Sea while attempting to complete a flight at Copenhagen.

Rail Zeppelin

New Method of Fast Transportation Developed in Russia

The Soviet's latest plan for speed transportation is called the "rail Zeppelin," and with it they expect to link up the main cities of Russia. Its inventor claims a maximum speed of 235 and a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour.

The "rail Zeppelin" has several novel features. It will run on a monorail and will have two propellers, one fore and the other aft of a Zeppelin-shaped fuselage. A gyroscope is intended to keep the car from jumping the track and to hold it steady. Inside there will be two floors, the upper one for passengers and crew and the lower one for freight, motors, batteries and a radio outfit.

In 1921 a motor with a propeller was mounted on a railway flat car and some visiting English delegates were invited on a test run. They got a speed of 100 miles an hour, but now they have a nice grave right next to John Reed's beside the red wall of the Kremlin.

Face Heavy Demand

Quebec Workmen's Compensation Commission Has Resources Taxed

The blast that sent the British tanker Cymbeline to the bottom of Vickers drydock here in Montreal with the loss of 30 lives has resulted in a heavy demand on the resources of the recently-established Quebec Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Widows of the dead workmen will receive $40 a month for the remainder of their widowhood and $10 per month will be allowed each child under the age of 18. The child's allowance is increased to $15 if the mother dies. Should a dead workman leave no widow, the law provides that another female relative may act as foster-mother to the orphan and is treated on the same financial basis as if she were the widow.

In the event of the widow's remarriage a grant equal to two years' compensation is allowed. The children's allowances continue, however. A sum up to $125 is allowed for funeral expenses.

A fall of "manna" from a cloudless sky is reported from a farm at Vryheid, South Africa. Native reports that the ground was covered with a white snow-like substance, which tasted like honey. #### GOVERNMENT WASTE MUST BE CURTAILED

Illustrative of general recognition of the fact that governmental expenditures have got entirely out of line with declining revenues is the formation of the National Economy League in the United States to wage a war on waste in government. Six of the leading men of the nation have accepted places on the advisory council of the league. They include ex-president Coolidge and a former candidate for the presidency, Hon. Alfred E. Smith.

It is evident that the present extraordinary situation calls for a radical readjustment in government expenditures. The old days of free official spending are over. Now governments of all kinds must control their expenditure to fit the capacity of the taxpayer to provide revenue. Instead of budgeting on the mythical supposition that the taxpayers can be made to pay whatever the body in control thinks fit. For the past three years private enterprises of all kinds have had to reduce output in accord with actual revenue. Adoption of the same policy is long overdue in official circles, but it is at most here because of the insistence of an aroused public opinion.

What is absolutely necessary today is a revision of government costs in terms of commodity values. The increased buying power of the dollar is evident to everyone. The taxpayer now demands that the different authorities, federal, provincial and municipal, should mark down the cost of services in line with the general price movement. That is a reasonable proposition. It would be intolerable if they maintained their expenditures at the level established when times were booming.

The immediate objective of the National Economy League across the border is to pare off some $452,000,000 in payments to war veterans, most of which it is claimed are collected for disabilities not sustained through war service. It is of interest that Ottawa proposes to cut pension allowances by one-third on account of the pronounced drop in the cost of living. Naturally the recipients of pensions will object strenuously, but the position of the government is unassailable. Confronted with a widespread demand for more economy in administrations, the $452,000,000 spent annually on pensions invites radical reduction by the government.

LARGER RURAL UNITS

Alberta's plan for consolidating its rural municipalities into larger units has certain attractive features, of which the possible saving of administration costs is the most prominent. But on this continent we fall rather too easily into the assumption that the big is better than the small. It is possible that Alberta is doing something under the drive of vogue for economizing which will in the long run have little if any beneficial effect.

To bring the discussion nearer home and to avoid the suggestion of merely capricious criticism of Premier Brownlee's plan, it may be pointed out that suggestions of municipal consolidation in Manitoba have usually met the answer that it was merely a way of piling the burdens of the weak and reckless upon the shoulders of the strong and solvent. The provincial government, which has the task of administering some of the weak municipalities, probably would welcome the chance to tack some of its proteges under the wings of adjoining municipalities.

Generally, centralization and consolidation do not reduce, but rather tend to increase the cost of government in the areas affected. It is true that temporary economies are made, and they may last as long as hard times continue, but with the return of better times, the larger unit is more likely to launch ambitious and expensive projects than the small unit is.

Careful study of the rapid rise in the cost of government in recent years will lead to the conclusion that the small units have, perhaps from necessity kept their per capita costs down, except in those enterprises which were imposed on them from above, while the larger units have cheerfully plunged into debt at an alarming rate. It is easier to persuade 10,000 people to spend a million dollars than it is to persuade one thousand to spend $100,000. The key to reducing the cost of government is not found in consolidation or at least not in that alone.

FARMER LEADERS GRAVELY INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP

George H. Williams and A. G. MacCauley, prominent figures in the life of the western prairies as leaders in the farmer's political movement in Saskatchewan lay in a hospital at Beiseker Sunday night, gravely injured.

Their condition was so serious last Sunday night that it was deemed not advisable to move them to Calgary. They were injured in an accident which involves four other persons Mrs. A. J. MacCauley, J. The car in which the five were driving was in collision with a machine driven by J. Schmalz, of Beiseker. The latter sustained injuries to the head and arm and was rushed to a Calgary hospital.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

An enjoyable social afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Watson, on Friday, July 29th, by Women's Institute members and friends. At a short business session Mrs. W. Newton was appointed convener of a committee to arrange details of a dry-cleaning demonstration to be held on August 26th. Announcement was also made of the Constitution conference to be held at Clive on August 24th, and Branch conveners of all departments are urged to send in their reports in good time. A resolution pertaining to unwedded mothers and delinquent children was also passed for consideration at conference. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. S. Sherrin. Games on the lawn and a delicious lunch concluded a most pleasant afternoon.

It is requested that all Branch Conveners of all Departments send in their reports of work done during the past year, to the Constituency Convener immediately so that all reports may be ready for the Constituency Conference on August 24th.

A PRETTY WEDDING

The spacious rooms in the lovely home of Dr. E. M. Sharpe, provided the setting for a wedding of special interest, on Saturday, July 30th, when Miss Edith L. Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Sims, and one of the most popular young women of the district, became the bride of Rev. J. S. Wood, of Carleton Place, Iowa.

Immense ferns, tall baskets of columbine and larkspur were effectively used as decorations, transforming the room into a veritable garden of beauty.

Entering the room on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March, played by the groom's sister, Mrs. R. Hainsworth, the bride was delighted, attired in a coral georgette gown, with egg-shell linen shoes, and carrying a bouquet of pink opheelia roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Charlotte Sims, who was gowning in mauve organdie and carried pink opheelia roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. George Wood. Rev. R. B. Layton performed the wedding ceremony. During the signing of the register, Mrs. A. Johnson, of Wetaskiwin, sang "O Perfect Love."

Here and There

During the afternoon, Rev. and Mrs. Wood left by motor for Carleton Place, Iowa, also planning an extended trip through Yellowstone National Park, the bride travelling in a blue knitted suit with accessories to match.

Early Public School boys, who will arrive in Montreal August 5, under his supervision, claims that there is no better "finishing school" than a tour of this nature.

First wheat harvesting reports in the Canadian West were reported by the agricultural department of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Winnipeg, July 25, with barley and rye going under the knife in the Alder and Esteron subdivisions of the railway. The wheat was harvested in southern Manitoba.

August will see the season in the Canadian Rockies at its peak with the Prince of Wales Trophy, already bringing in golf entries from far and near, scheduled for August 15-20 and coinciding with this event the Canadian Day celebration, August 19-21, which will be attended by Spencey, Greer and Kootenay.

Conducting five French and five Swiss professional men from Paris, France, to this continent, Nicolas Racz, of the Paris office of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is visiting Toronto, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago, Washington, New York, Albany, Montreal, Quebec, and returning to Europe on the Empress of Britain, August 6.

Mystery cruises, so popular out of New York, Southampton and other great ports, were ushered in on the British Columbia coast with the sailing of the coastal liner Princess Patricia, of the Canadian Pacific coastal service, to an unknown destination under sealed orders, recently. Close to 200 passengers were attracted by the trip.

July, red, succulent buffalo steaks grilled to a sizzle, greeted the Australian and New Zealand delegates to the Ottawa Imperial Conference as they entered the dining car of their special train over the Canadian Pacific Railway en route to Vancouver recently. The Aussies were particularly impressed by this menu and pronounced it better than any beef they had ever eaten.

Governor Franklin Delano Roosevelt of New York, Democratic Nominee for the Presidency, has for years been one of New Brunswick's most distinguished non-resident visitors, members of his family annually spending several weeks at the Roosevelt summer home at Campbellton, one of the Grand Manan Island Group in Passamaquoddy Bay. He first came there as a mere lad back in 1895.
